One of the first steps to being a school that is inclusive and supportive of transgender, non-binary and gender exploring students is to have an understanding of inclusive language and terms.

Here is an example that shows why terms are important:

Alys and the LGBTQI+ group at the school have noticed that other students don't quite understand what the differences are between sexuality (being gay for example) and gender identity (being transgender for example) so they decide to put posters up in the school that give definitions for different LGBTQI+ terms. They also start wearing pronoun badges because they want their teachers to stop automatically calling Jake "he/him" and raise awareness about pronouns and respecting everyone's pronouns. Ms. Davies, the wellbeing officer, also starts wearing a pronoun badge and starts conversations with other teachers about terms and pronouns.
